

I'd like to thank all of you once more for wonderful and unforgettable time I had at Mayflower College. It definitely exceeded my expectations. Now I've been teaching back in Poland for a week. I've had so much to tell my students about - English politeness, Plymouth and places of beauty nearby, Cornwall, Millbrook School, Devon cream tea, Cornish pasty, Michael Morpurgo and his powerful stories, etc. My students were very fascinated by my 'tale'. I've got a lot of inspiring and authentic teaching material to use in classes now.

It was great pleasure to attend classes at Mayflower College. I met really dedicated, enthusiastic and competent tutors and teachers. The atmosphere was very friendly. I think everybody feels important and positively encouraged in your school.

I am very thankful to you as my stay in Plymouth influenced my overall attitude towards teaching and life. I can say I've reached a crossroads in life (a nice metaphor from my morning classes). I was pretty much discouraged from teaching before arriving in England. Now I regained my enthusiasm and realised what really matters in teaching process – making students think, create 'things', have fun. I feel more confident and competent now. I've got strength to change some things in my life, too.

Big thanks to all the staff and particularly the tutors and teachers I had classes with: Jan, Steve, Judy, Jonathan, Adele, Ross and Adam.

'The mediocre teacher tells. The good teacher explains. The superior teacher demonstrates. The great teacher inspires' - William A. Ward

Thank you for inspiring me.
